Venture Wheel of Fortune

The 2016 VCs on Skis game show, Venture Wheel of Fortune, pitted entrepreneur Danielle Weinblatt, CEO of Take The Interview, and VCs Evan Macqueen and Jayson Tischler, of Core Capital and Rittenhouse Ventures respectively, against one another. The host of Venture Wheel of Fortune, Scott Rosenblatt, ensured the game moved at an upbeat tempo and that the crowd was engaged. After four grueling rounds of wheel spinning and puzzle solving in the books, Danielle was the clear victor and awarded the Venture Wheel of Fortune Cup.

Company Showcase

We showcased 5 amazing companies at this year's VC on Skis. Dave Carvajal of Dave Partners and Sanjay Gandhi of Oxford Valuation partners introduced our showcase presenters. Alex Douzet, co-founder and CEO, presented Ollie, an online fresh pet food delivery service that will transform the pet food industry. Gary LaFever, co-founder and CEO, presented Anonos whose revolutionary technology unlocks the full value of data without compromising privacy. Alex Nephew, co-founder, presented 7Park Data which provides data intelligence to businesses around the world. Eric Berry, co-founder and CEO, presented TripleLift, the industry's leading programmatic native advertising platform. Karan Gandhi, Director of Operations, presented Boxed.com which provides bulk online/mobile shopping.

6:15 PM

Conscious Capitalism Panel

The VCs On Skis Conscious Capitalism panel examined the efficacy of building conscious companies, making conscious investments, and the growing pressure on companies, executives and investors from younger consumers and entrants into the workforce that want the places they shop, the companies they found or work for, and the businesses they invest in to operate in a way that is conscious of all stakeholders. The panel featured Miki Agrawal of SheThinx, Karan Gandhi of Boxed.com, Matthew Colbert of Spend Consciously, Jeffrey Cherry of Conscious Venture Labs, Dave Kirkpatrick of SJF Ventures and moderator Jeff Finkle of Reitler Advisory Group.

Ed Talk

Ed Reitler's address to the VCs on Skis crowd segued perfectly into our keynote fireside chat with George Hotz, CEO and Founder of comma.ai, which is developing technology to enable any car to be self-driving. The conversation dove into the present and future of driverless cars, rule-based AI, comma's place in the market and Hotz's public feud with Elon Musk. See the full video here.
